Dear Friends and Colleagues,

Thank you for being a part of the 28th annual Breath of Life New York Golf Tournament benefiting National Jewish Health. We appreciate you joining us to support such an important medical research center.

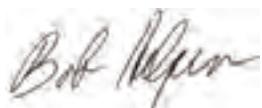

Most of us know someone who has struggled with asthma, allergies, COPD, pulmonary hypertension or another illness related to the lungs, heart or immune system. The renowned experts at National Jewish Health are sometimes the only ones who can correctly diagnose and treat the most severe forms of these diseases. Their physicians and scientists are dedicated to fully understanding these conditions, developing better treatments and uncovering cures that will enable more people to live full, healthy lives.

Once again, thank you for your participation today. You are supporting lifesaving care and research for people in New York and around the world. We encourage you to browse through this program to learn more about National Jewish Health and see the sponsors who have made today possible.

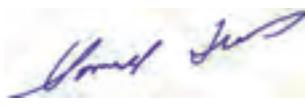

Enjoy your day on the course!
