Dear Friends and Colleagues,

Thank you for being a part of the Breath of Life New York Golf Tournament benefiting National Jewish Health. This event has a long tradition of support for the transformative medicine that has helped restore the “breath of life” to so many of our loved ones. In fact, 1 in 4 Americans live with respiratory conditions that can significantly interfere with their quality of life.

The world-renowned physicians and scientists at National Jewish Health help people from here in New York, across the country and around the world breathe easier and live healthier. Their collaborative approach, bringing together research and care, is unlike any other. It helps to sort through symptoms and address the root cause of disease, giving hope to thousands each year.

We are excited to share that the experts in Denver recently achieved remission in severe asthma — a goal many of you have supported since this event began as The Fund to Cure Asthma Golf Tournament. The physicians and scientists are also working to reverse the damaging effects of COPD and are improving treatment and prevention of pulmonary hypertension and other life-threatening diseases.

Once again, thank you for joining us today and helping to restore the “breath of life” to all who need the life-saving research and care of National Jewish Health in New York and around the world. We encourage you to browse through this program to learn more about the medical center and see the sponsors who have made today possible.

Enjoy your day on this beautiful course!
