

Louis and his wife, Elise, recently moved from Portland, Oregon to Denver with their two children, Lillian and Solomon. Louis was raised in Denver where his family has been very active and involved in the Jewish Federation and many other local and national organizations. He is excited to reconnect with the community he grew up in and find ways to give back and make an impact. As an employee benefits consultant at Holmes Murphy & Associates, Louis advises medium and large employers on strategies to reduce the burden of healthcare costs to their business while also addressing the emotional, physical and financial well-being of employees. He is passionate about family, connecting with people, traveling, the outdoors and tennis.