

Keystone Conference 2008

DECEMBER 03, 2008

DENVER — Allergists, pulmonologists and general practitioners can learn the approaches and methods used to diagnose and treat allergic, respiratory, and immune diseases at the 30th Annual Allergy and Respiratory Update conference hosted next month by National Jewish Medical and Research Center. The program is co-chaired by National Jewish professors Harold Nelson, MD, Richard Martin, MD, and Erwin Gelfand, MD. The conference is a great opportunity to discuss key issues with colleagues in a relaxed atmosphere. There are still some spots available.

“This conference will assist all medical professionals in treating their patients who suffer from these conditions,” said Dr. Nelson. “It is a tremendous opportunity to learn from some of the best teachers in the nation.”

All participants will observe presentations by national and international speakers in the morning and take part in case study discussion workshops interacting with National Jewish Faculty in the afternoons. The agenda is designed with time for winter and family activities during the four-day conference. Attendees can also earn CME/CE credit. National Jewish is accredited by the ACCME to provide CME credit hours for physicians.

National Jewish Medical and Research Center is the only medical and research center in the United States devoted entirely to respiratory, allergic, and immune system diseases, including asthma, tuberculosis, emphysema, severe allergies and autoimmune diseases, such as lupus. It has been rated the #1 respiratory hospital in the nation for ten straight years by U.S. News & World Report.

For more information and to sign up for the conference visit our website, call 303-398-1948 or email us at harshmana@njc.org.

The Keystone Conference Center in Keystone is 90 miles west of Denver with a wide range of activities and services designed for the entire family. For more information visit the resort's website at www.keystoneressort.com.

National Jewish Health is the leading respiratory hospital in the nation. Founded 124 years ago as a nonprofit hospital, National Jewish Health today is the only facility in the world dedicated exclusively to groundbreaking medical research and treatment of patients with respiratory, cardiac, immune and related disorders. Patients and families come to National Jewish Health from around the world to receive cutting-edge, comprehensive, coordinated care. To learn more, visit the media resources page.

Media Contacts

Our team is available to arrange interviews, discuss events and story ideas.

Jessica Berry
303.398.1082
berryl@njhealth.org