

NBC News Vists National Jewish

---

DECEMBER 03, 2008

DENVER — NBC Nightly News chief health and science correspondent Robert Bazell spent two full days on the National Jewish Health campus in September developing a three-part series on allergies, which ran September 29 through October 1. The segments featured the Kunsberg School , Drs. Dan Atkins and David Fleischer talking about food allergies, and Dr. Andy Liu talking about the hygiene hypothesis and the rise in allergies over the past two decades.

National Jewish Health is the leading respiratory hospital in the nation. Founded 121 years ago as a nonprofit hospital, National Jewish Health today is the only facility in the world dedicated exclusively to groundbreaking medical research and treatment of patients with respiratory, cardiac, immune and related disorders. Patients and families come to National Jewish Health from around the world to receive cutting-edge, comprehensive, coordinated care. To learn more, visit the media resources page.
