

National Jewish Health Receives Top Accreditation for Continuing Medical Education

OCTOBER 08, 2012

DENVER — National Jewish Health has received Accreditation with Commendation from the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME). National Jewish Health has been accredited by the ACCME since the council's inception in 1984; however, this is the first time that it has received the honor of Accreditation with "Commendation."

"Receiving this level of accreditation from the ACCME is a testament to the dedication of National Jewish Health in producing impactful continuing medical education," said Andrea Harshman, Director of Professional Education at National Jewish Health. "We are extremely proud of receiving this recognition and it is a result of our faculty and their continuous commitment to provide outstanding education to improve patient care."

This is the highest level of accreditation through the ACCME, and is based on a review of a National Jewish Health self-study report, evidence of performance-in-practice and the accreditation review. Accreditation with "Commendation" is awarded to providers that demonstrate compliance in 22 criteria and accreditation policies.

The ACCME rigorously evaluates the overall continuing medical education programs of institutions according to standards adopted by all seven sponsoring organizations of the ACCME: the American Board of Medical Specialties, the American Hospital Association, the American Medical Association, the Association for Hospital Medical Education, the Association of American Medical Colleges, the Council of Medical Specialty Societies, and the Federation of State Medical Boards.

National Jewish Health is known worldwide for treatment of patients with respiratory, cardiac, immune and related disorders, and for groundbreaking medical research. Founded in 1899 as a nonprofit hospital, National Jewish remains the only facility in the world dedicated exclusively to these disorders. Since 1998, U.S. News & World Report has ranked National Jewish the #1 respiratory hospital in the nation.

National Jewish Health is the leading respiratory hospital in the nation. Founded 122 years ago as a nonprofit hospital, National Jewish Health today is the only facility in the world dedicated exclusively to groundbreaking medical research and treatment of patients with respiratory, cardiac, immune and related disorders. Patients and families come to National Jewish Health from around the world to receive cutting-edge, comprehensive, coordinated care. To learn more, visit the media resources page.

Media Contacts

Our team is available to arrange interviews, discuss events and story ideas.

William Allstetter
303.398.1002
allstetterw@njhealth.org

Adam Dormuth
303.398.1082
dormutha@njhealth.org