

Pulmonologist Dr. Ann Granchelli Joins National Jewish Health

JANUARY 26, 2017

DENVER — Ann Granchelli, MD, SM, has joined the pulmonary faculty at National Jewish Health in the Division of Pulmonary, Critical Care and Sleep Medicine. She comes to National Jewish Health from the Department of Pulmonary Medicine at University of Utah where she served as a visiting instructor while completing a pulmonary research fellowship. Dr. Granchelli will see general pulmonary patients at the National Jewish Health main campus in Denver. In addition, she will see cystic fibrosis patients on the inpatient unit at the Saint Joseph Hospital campus and critical care patients at Rose Medical Center and Swedish Medical Center. Dr. Granchelli is proficient in both Spanish and Nepali.

Dr. Granchelli received her medical degree at the University of Colorado School of Medicine. She served her residency and fellowship at University of Utah. Dr. Granchelli holds a Masters Degree in Public Health from the Harvard School of Public Health. In addition, Dr. Granchelli has performed medical volunteering in Nepal and Ecuador.

National Jewish Health is the leading respiratory hospital in the nation. Founded 123 years ago as a nonprofit hospital, National Jewish Health today is the only facility in the world dedicated exclusively to groundbreaking medical research and treatment of patients with respiratory, cardiac, immune and related disorders. Patients and families come to National Jewish Health from around the world to receive cutting-edge, comprehensive, coordinated care. To learn more, visit the media resources page.

Media Contacts

Our team is available to arrange interviews, discuss events and story ideas.

Jessica Berry
303.398.1082
berrylj@njhealth.org