

Pulmonologist Dr. Catherine Wittman Joins National Jewish Health

APRIL 18, 2017

DENVER — Catherine Wittman, MD, has joined the pulmonary faculty at National Jewish Health in the Section of Critical Care Medicine and Department of Medicine. She comes to National Jewish Health from Kaiser Permanente, where she spent the past four years. Dr. Wittman completed her post-graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center in internal medicine, and pulmonary and critical care. Her clinical areas of focus include interstitial lung diseases (ILD). She will see patients at the National Jewish Health main campus.

Dr. Wittman received her medical degree at the State University of New York. Additionally, she has spent considerable time volunteering overseas with Doctors Without Borders in the Democratic Republic of Congo and with the Peace Corps in Morocco.

National Jewish Health is the leading respiratory hospital in the nation. Founded 122 years ago as a nonprofit hospital, National Jewish Health today is the only facility in the world dedicated exclusively to groundbreaking medical research and treatment of patients with respiratory, cardiac, immune and related disorders. Patients and families come to National Jewish Health from around the world to receive cutting-edge, comprehensive, coordinated care. To learn more, visit the media resources page.

Media Contacts

Our team is available to arrange interviews, discuss events and story ideas.

William Allstetter
303.398.1002
allstetterw@njhealth.org

Adam Dormuth
303.398.1082
dormutha@njhealth.org