

Pulmonologist Dr. Hilda Metjian Joins National Jewish Health

SEPTEMBER 02, 2020

DENVER — Hilda Metjian, MD, has joined the renowned faculty at National Jewish Health in the Division of Pulmonary, Critical Care and Sleep Medicine. She comes to National Jewish Health from Duke University Medical Center in Durham, North Carolina. Dr. Metjian will see general pulmonary patients on the National Jewish Health main campus and will serve as part of the National Jewish Health Critical Care team at Rose Medical Center. She has clinical interests in bronchiectasis, asthma, COPD, ALS, chronic respiratory failure secondary to neuromuscular diseases and palliative care.

Dr. Metjian received her medical degree at University of Florida College of Medicine, and completed her residency in internal medicine at University of North Carolina. Additionally, she completed a pulmonary and critical care fellowships at University of North Carolina.

National Jewish Health is the leading respiratory hospital in the nation. Founded 124 years ago as a nonprofit hospital, National Jewish Health today is the only facility in the world dedicated exclusively to groundbreaking medical research and treatment of patients with respiratory, cardiac, immune and related disorders. Patients and families come to National Jewish Health from around the world to receive cutting-edge, comprehensive, coordinated care. To learn more, visit the media resources page.

Media Contacts

Our team is available to arrange interviews, discuss events and story ideas.

Jessica Berry
303.398.1082
berryj@njhealth.org