DENVER, CO — The sixth annual Rev the Runway fashion show was held on November 2, 2023, with more than 450 guests in attendance. The sold-out event raised more than $325,000 to support National Jewish Health, the nation’s leading respiratory hospital. Funds raised will help provide compassionate care for children and adults and support groundbreaking research in respiratory, cardiac, immune and related diseases. The event was presented by Neiman Marcus and Mercedes-Benz of Denver, where the event was hosted.

This year, the Cohen Family was the title sponsor and co-chaired the event as a family. Warren Cohen, a member of the National Jewish Health Board of Directors; Denise Cohen, who serves on the National Council of Trustees; and their three children, Max, Dan and Emily, were involved in planning the style-driven evening. At the event, they welcomed guests and thanked all for their support of National Jewish Health.
“National Jewish Health has been an important institution to us. We were honored to chair this year’s Rev the Runway event, especially as a family,” said Warren Cohen. “Being able to reach a multigenerational audience is so important for our future,” he added.

Cohen had the honor to introduce Aaron Gordon, power forward for the world-champion Denver Nuggets, who made a special guest appearance to present fashion awards to guests selected in three categories: Best Dressed, Vintage Couture and Fashion Forward.

In addition to the Cohens, a dedicated committee of more than 40 volunteers, also known as “The Drivers,” helped to make the event a success. Lauren Whitney of CBS Colorado led the evening’s program as emcee, which she has done every year since Rev the Runway began. She also served on the committee as a Driver. The Mercedes-Benz of Denver’s showroom was transformed into a high-fashion runway and featured exclusive looks from favorite and emerging designers, including Brunello Cucinelli, Alexander McQueen, Dolce & Gabbana, Ralph Lauren and Giorgio Armani.

Throughout the evening, guests enjoyed gourmet appetizers, cocktails and decadent desserts from some of Denver’s top restaurants, including Safta, Le Bilboquet, Jing, Narrative, Ocean Prime, Postino, Birdcall, and Dessert Holdings.
